DETAILED ACTION

Priority

1. Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.
2. Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Information Disclosure Statement

3. The Information disclosure Statement filed on 01/13/06 has been considered.

Abstract

4. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

5. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

6. Claims 27-30, 45, and 56-57, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claims 27, 45, and 56-57, the expression “such that an individual semiconductor component is rotated by substantially 90 degrees or 270 degrees with respect to four adjacent semiconductor components” is unclear. It is confused that base on what feature of the semiconductor components to determine the rotation of one semiconductor component.

Claims 28-30 are rejected since each includes the limitations of independent claim 27.

See that the claims above have been rendered indefinite and many have multiple 112 problems. Therefore, such claims have been examined as best understood by the examiner.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

7. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

8. Claims 27-30, 45, and 57 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Norishima et al. (5,436,097).

Regarding claims 27-30, 45, and 57, Norishima et al. (see specifically figures 3-7, Col. 2, line 45 to Col. 12, line 56) disclose a method for producing a rewiring substrate strip comprising:

a rewiring substrate having several semiconductor component positions (316) configured for semiconductor components, wherein the component positions are arranged in rows and columns, a component group (See Fig. 7) defined by several semiconductor component positions with respect to one another such that an individual semiconductor component is rotated by substantially 90 degrees with respect to four adjacent semiconductor components separating the rewiring substrate strip into individual components (Col. 8, lines 15+), wherein the rewiring substrate strip is separated to comprise on opposite edges cut rewiring lines which led to test contact surfaces (44) on cutting strips of the rewiring substrate strip.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

9. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

10. Claim 56 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Norishima et al. (5,436,097).

Regarding claim 56, Norishima et al. discloses the claimed invention as detailed above except for the step of sorting out and marked the defective semiconductor components.

Although Norishima et al. lack a process step of sorting out and marked the defective semiconductor components, performing a testing step to avoid a defective semiconductor component after forming step is commonly applied in semiconductor art and would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art. It would have been obvious to modify Norishima et al. accordingly for the purpose of avoiding the defective product in the manufacturing line.

Allowable Subject Matter

11. Claims 31-44 and 46-55 are allowable.
12. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter:

Claims 31-44 and 46-55 are allowable since the prior art made of record and considered pertinent to the applicant's disclosure, taken individually or in combination, fails to teach or fairly suggest, a detail and the structural interrelationship among external contacts, test contact surfaces on a rear side of the rewiring substrate strip being correspondingly aligned with respect to one another in such a manner that the arrangements of four next neighbors of a semiconductor component are rotated by uniformly 90 degrees or by uniformly 270 degrees with respect to the one arrangement in accordance with a predetermined plan, as being claimed in independent claim 31, and the step of mounting semiconductor chips on the top side of the rewiring substrate strip in the semiconductor component positions, applying external contacts in the semiconductor component positions to the external contact patches of the rewiring structure on the rear side of the rewiring substrate strip, and performing functional tests of the semiconductor chips, combined into component groups, by contacting the test contact surfaces, as recited in independent claim 46.

Since claims 32-44 and 47-55 depend on either claims 31 or 46, they are also allowed.
